About the campaign

We are looking to attract a diverse next generation of talent. With approximately 30% of our surveying professionals aged over 50, it is imperative we act now to attract new talent so that the industry reflects the world it serves.

Join us at this event, where we aim to:

1. Educate - Provide information about the surveying profession, its importance, and various career paths.
2. Engage - Offer an interactive presentation to engage participants and spark interest in surveying.
3. Network - Facilitate connections between students, professionals, and educational institutions.
4. Recruit - Identify and nurture potential talent for future opportunities in the field of surveying.

Do you?

Want a varied, interesting and rewarding career centred on all things people, property and buildings?
Want a career that isn't 9-5 at the same desk all week? Have innovative ideas? Have an interest in the built environment and want to shape the future?

This event is for you!
